Aeropiane Service Excellent.

One is surprised at the excellence of the aeropiane service when it is realized that the corps is only three years old. This is not due to the superior flying of the British airmen, but to thoroughness of their equipment and mechanical department and the prodisality of the expenditure for all necessary assistance and resources. Everything but the actual manufacture of the engines is being done at the front. The engines are assembled and the wings made in different along near the aeropiane base. Successful recommaissiances with air traft has now become a matter of mechanical care and organization. The British aviator seems keenly to enjoy these baneauvers and the chance to chart an enemy machine.

matter of mechanical care and organization. The British aviator seems keenly to enjoy these maneuvers and the chance to chare an enemy machine.

Bead Lie Emburied.

The officer pointed out places where the positions on both sides, despite the attacks and counter attacks, were the same as last October and where there might as well have been an understanding to rest for the winter and mart in the spring when the ground has dried out. Yet, though dead from the attacks lie between the trenchos, close to the parapets, the Germans will not agree to an armistice to bury them, the officer said.

No Hate is Apparent.

One heard much in England of the hate of the German for the English, but here at the front no hate seemingly is evinced by the British, despite the assertion that it is their determination to fight to the finish.

'The German hates us because we are going to be the top dog.' Tommy Atkins says.

Staff Lives Samply.

From the commander in chief down, simple living and the duty of keeping well are the rules that are being rigidly followed. Field marshal Sir John French, the British commander, occupies a house. His office is the drawing room, the appointments of which have not been disturbed. He dinas with his aides in the dining room. The other rooms are used as offices. Dinner at headquarters ope finds much like the dinner of the English mess in England, the talk running on other subjects than the war as a relaxation for the officera it is hard to realize wer in so near by. Sir John French is rudny and alert and bears no sign of the strain of the last eight menths.

TO RETURNING RESERVISTS

Berlin, Germany, March 5.—To facilitate the return of reservising who would join their commands, but are mable financially to do so, the German government has promulanted an order according to which the men have but to make their way to the nearest district commander to receive money for their milroad fare an deviennes.

The expenses of traveling to the district headquarters is supposed to be borne by the men, but in case it was necessary for them in part or in whole to borrow funds for the journey, it is arranged for the repsyment of these sums. Money likewise is advanced in case the reservist officer's family was left in want or for the purchase of his equipment.

WILL COST $1,725,000,000

London, Eng., March 5.—The new British pension plan will cost the government nearly $1,725,000,000 before the last pensioner dies, according to actuaries employed by the non-partisan committee which prepared the plan at the order of the house of commons. The maximum expenditure the first year, the committee reports, will be about $150,000,000, and the cost during the first year after the war will reach $65,000,000.

These includes are based on an army of three million men, a two years war, and is percent of deaths with 12 percent of disciplement.

AUSTRIA REFUSES TO AID

TURKEY WITH HER FLEET Geneva. Switz-oriand. March 5.—Constantinople, Turkey is in a panic, and the exodus of people from the city continues. According to a dispatch to the Tribune from Bucharest, Roumania. The dispatch says Turkey appealed to Austria for the aid of her fleet in the battle against the allied fleet which is pounding the Dardanelies forts, but Austria replied it was not feasible to send the fleet at this time, Austria advised Turkey to transfer the capital to Asia Minor and not lose hope of an eventual victory.
